Power variation analysis of some integral fractional processes

José Manuel Corcuera

University of Barcelona

Abstract

In this talk the author will review some results about the asymptotic behavior of the power variation and how they can be used for statistical purposes in the context of some integral fractional processes, that is processes that can be obtained as integrals with respect to a fractional Brownian motion.